Serving on Public Boards & Commissions

MAY 29, 2025
Dinner Provided

Join us for "Serving on Public Boards and Commissions," part of the Neighborhood 101 Workshop series! Whether you're a seasoned neighborhood leader or an inspired resident, this session will empower you with the tools and confidence to make a lasting impact.

We're excited to have Connie Haas Zuber bring her invaluable insight from serving on and leading boards, in addition to facilitating workshops for them and covering their work as a journalist, to the workshop.

Connie spent all four of her professional careers in Fort Wayne: her first as a newspaper journalist, her second running her own business as a consultant for non-profits on governance and data management, her third back in journalism but at a magazine and her fourth as executive director for a small non-profit.

Along the way, she served on the boards of Friends of the Parks of Allen County, ACRES Land Trust and Quest Club, leading both Friends and Quest as president, and was president for the local Unitarian Universalist Congregation, in addition to serving as president of its district presidents association and national district presidents association. She currently serves as a citizen volunteer on the Fort Wayne Plan Commission and Board of Zoning Appeals and has been president of the Plan Commission for several years, which places her on two other boards (the Joint Governing Board and Joint Permitting Oversight Board).

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

At this workshop, participants will spend 90 minutes learning why serving matters, how to apply for service, and gaining insights into contributing to our community through governance roles. This engaging workshop will conclude with a hands-on mock board meeting, giving you a chance to practice decision-making and collaboration in a real-world setting.

Together, let's strengthen our communities!
